The eleventh Imaging Perspectives course hosted by the Royal Marsden focuses on Tumour Response Assessment: RECIST 1.1 and beyond. The course aims to outline commonly used and evolving response assessment criteria as well as an introduction to advanced imaging for clinical trials. Lectures will be supplemented with interactive voting.

Learning objectives include unravelling RECIST 1.1 and beyond, and increasing understanding of evolving response assessment criteria for all professionals involved in oncology.

About the course

The enormous complexity of drugs and clinical trials is taking us to RECIST 1.1 and beyond. This year's course aims to outline commonly used and evolving response assessment criteria with interactive case discussion and voting pads as well as an introduction to more advanced imaging for clinical trials.

Who should attend?

This course is designed for consultant radiologists and oncologists, specialist registrars, radiographers and all professionals involved in oncology.

Who's on the teaching faculty?

The faculty is comprised of world leading specialists from The Royal Marsden, Cambridge University, Guy's & St. Thomas', and Mount Vernon Hospitals. MINT Medical will host a lunchtime symposium with demonstration of software providing informatics solutions and the introduction of response assessment criteria into routine radiology workflow.

Where is the course?

The course will be held at The Royal College of Physicians, 11 St Andrews Place, London. NW1 4LE

We hope you will be able to join us for the 2019 course in London!
