

MEET THE SPEAKERS

Jonathan Leon Gibbs, Chief Product Officer, Trialing Health

When: Friday 17th April, 3.30pm

Session: Equitable access to clinical trials

Topic: Trialing - the Clinical Trial Finder

Jonathan Leon Gibbs is Chief Product Officer at Trialing Health, based in Barcelona, Spain, where he leads the development of infrastructure that supports equitable access to clinical trials. He works closely with oncologists, hospital networks and research units across Europe and the US to address the operational barriers that prevent suitable patients from being identified and referred in time.

With more than 20 years' experience at the intersection of healthcare, data and clinical research, Jonathan has led product development for multiple US-based trials evaluating novel digital therapeutic interventions. His work in applied artificial intelligence includes leading NHS projects using predictive models to identify risk of mental health crisis from longitudinal patient data, as well as collaborative pilots with UCL analysing behavioural ground-truth data to detect early clinical deterioration.

Previously, he led international expansion initiatives at Teladoc Health, deploying remote patient monitoring programmes across European healthcare systems. Jonathan holds a degree in Information Systems and Psychology and an MBA from Duke University in the US.
