

MEET THE SPEAKERS

Prerana Huddar, Clinical Research Fellow, Barts Cancer Institute and NOTCH Secretary

When: Thursday 16th April, 11.50am

Session: Future of Oncology- Empowering patient involvement in Cancer Care

Topic: NOTCH

Prerana is the current secretary for NOTCH (National Oncology Trainee Collaborative for Healthcare research). She is a Medical Oncology Registrar training at the Christie but now pursuing a PhD at Barts Cancer Institute (Queen Mary University of London).

Prerana obtained her MBChB and BMedSci (Hons) from the University of Edinburgh, a PGCert in Medical Education from the University of Dundee, and an MRes in Experimental Cancer Medicine from the University of Manchester. She has a keen interest in medical education and gastrointestinal oncology.

She is currently leading a UKECRC (UK Early Career Researchers in Cancer) scoping review investigating enablers and barriers to pursuing a career in academia for early career researchers in the field of oncology internationally. She has a keen interest in ensuring equitable access to research opportunities and research training for all oncology trainees.

>> Find out more – Visit the Conference Website