

MEET THE SPEAKERS

Dr Sarah Briggs, NIHR Academic Clinical Lecturer, Oxford University

When: Thursday 16th April, 4pm

Session: Future of Oncology- securing a sustainable future

Topic: Sustainability in Oncology

Sarah Briggs is an NIHR Clinical Lecturer in Nuffield Department of Medicine, University of Oxford, and Medical Oncology Registrar at Oxford University Hospitals. She completed her medical degree and her DPhil, developing risk prediction models for bowel cancer, at the University of Oxford. Her current research focuses on the development of environmentally sustainable healthcare, with a focus on cancer care.

Recent and upcoming projects have explored public and patient perceptions of the environmental impact of healthcare. She is also collaborating on an interdisciplinary project - "NetZeroEd" - which aims to support secondary school curriculum designers to deliver high-quality Net Zero education.
